

Victoria England Accepts Leadership Role in Texas Nurses Association

Victoria England, RN, MBA of Garland, has agreed to serve an appointed two-year term of office as the new vice president of Texas Nurses Association (TNA), a statewide professional association of registered nurses (RN). The appointment which England assumed on July 15 was made unanimously by the TNA Board of Directors. It is for 2010-2012.

In her new leadership role, England succeeds former TNA vice president Margie Dorman-O'Donnell, MSN, RN of North Richland Hills. Dorman-O'Donnell fulfilled two terms of service, the maximum allowed under association bylaws.

A long-standing member of TNA, England is a past chairman of the TNA Governmental Affairs Committee, a delegate representative to the American Nurses Association, and a past president of TNA District 4, the Dallas-area chapter of TNA. Professionally, she is currently the Magnet[®] Program Director for Children's Medical Center Dallas.

"I am honored to be asked to serve as TNA's vice president," said England. "I am passionate about being a nurse, and about supporting the nurses in Texas through my participation in this organization that promotes quality health care for both nursing and patients through education, advocacy and the influencing of health care policy."
